At Terra House, our priority is providing food that is made with ingredients that are sourced locally and organically as often as possible. Supporting this type of sustainable system is far superior for our health as it provides substantially more nutrients than commercially produced foods, it is better for our environment as it focuses on humane agricultural practices, and it is better for our local economy! Our food is prepared in our kitchen including our sauces, dressings, breads and rolls to ensure we know exactly what ingredients are going in your food.
